News from the Field

We had another fantastic Active Learning Conference on January 25 and 26, 2013. The 2013 California Active Learning Conference was attended by approximately 100 people made up of educators, parents, and support personnel. Different perspectives were brought by parents who use Active Learning in their homes with their child, different schools in different countries who have adopted the Active Learning Curriculum for their students. Different ideas were exchanged amongst all who attended. Everyone went away with something. I especially enjoyed the ideas from Narbethong State Special School in Australia. They had adapted the HOPSA dress, working with Dr. Neilsen, for a different position. It was very innovative and promotes crawling. There were several breakout sessions that enabled participants to focus more specifically on individual needs. The make and take session was a HUGE HIT. Everyone enjoyed being able to take home a project that they could make and use with their learners. Overall, the conference was packed with information and was time well spent to benefit our learners!!

Pricing Change

It is with careful thought and regrets that LilliWorks must make some small increases in prices due to rising costs of materials and vendor increases. This will affect the RB 4x4, and the size 1 & 2 HOPSA Dresses. Please check the website price list for current prices. We want to be here to provide Active Learning products and support to parents, schools and learners.
